

INVESTIGATION FALLS DOWN; McDUFFIE TO BE REINSTATED

from the Japanese, who worked in the Young Hotel; that he twice went back there to endeavor to return it, but was notified that the man had been discharged and no longer worked there, and he also stated that he had been unable to find him since.

Deputy Sheriff Rose at once gave a few orders on the quiet to his officers. Detective Kuroda immediately went to the Young Hotel, got the Japanese and had him at the police station ten minutes after McDuffie had "explained."

The man had not been discharged. He had been at the Young Hotel ever since the ring was taken from him.

The Famous O'sen Affidavit.

One of McDuffie's right hand men was commonly reported to be Manuel Olsen, a detective for several years in the employ of the department, having been several times discharged and as many times suspended for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The last time Olsen was suspended it was on charges of drunkenness preferred by John Kellett and on even more serious charges of a private nature presented against him by Detective Holbrook. The affidavit which Olsen made voluntarily against McDuffie and Kellett was made after the detective had been reinstated following a failure to substantiate the charges in full.

Affidavit Volunteered.

The affidavit was given absolutely voluntarily to two Advertiser representatives. He was warned in advance that there was not the slightest reason in the world that would compel him to; that his reinstatement did not depend upon it, and, in short, that he did not have to make it if he did not want to. He then made his statement, which was taken down carefully as a matter of news and which was afterwards made into the form of an affidavit at the request of Sheriff Jarrett, who wished "the evidence possible to be placed upon paper."

The affidavit was made out from notes carefully compared, taking care that Olsen's exact meaning was preserved. Olsen then went to the attorney general's office and read this prepared statement in his presence. He assured the attorney general that he understood the affidavit exactly and that it was correct. He swore to it before a notary public in the presence of the attorney general, signed it, and placed his initials on each page.

After that, the closer McDuffie got to home the colder Olsen's feet became. His visits to the attorney general inquiring him to tear the affidavit up became more frequent and as that official had already decided to disregard the affidavit for some reason it was finally given back to him. A carefully compared copy is reproduced below.

Olsen Decides to Resign.

Olsen remained in the department for a few more weeks. He professed a desire to act straight and win back the respect of his superiors and was given charge of looking up the haifour haole crap games that were running all over town, most of them supported by certain chauffeurs. He remained away from the department continually on the ground that he was working on the cases, but failed to land one of them, and with the exception of several that were broken up by other officers most of them are in progress now.

A few days after McDuffie returned he had a long talk with Olsen in the hall of the detective bureau. The next day Olsen turned in his resignation and upon it going into effect was honest enough to turn over recovered property which he said had been "loaned" to him by the officers then under suspension.

The affidavit is as follows:

Affidavit of Manuel Olsen.

"Territory of Hawaii, City and County of Honolulu—S. S.

"I, Manuel Olsen, being first duly sworn, do depose and say that, I am now and have been for many months last past, a police officer of the City and County of Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, and that my work as such police officer has been primarily in looking up the haifour haole crap games that were running all over town, most of them supported by certain chauffeurs. Mr. Earhart, who hails from San Francisco, is to paint a panoramic scene of the most notable spots on each island. He sketches the scenes first, and then photographs sections. These are afterwards made up into a composite picture that will show the natural colors and all the details.

Iao Needle has been photographed and painted thousands of times, but the latest attempt is of a different variety and will be obtained from an entirely new standpoint. Trails will be cut up the face of the mountains, and the camera will be so placed that something new in the way of pictures of the Needle and the surrounding country will be secured.

WAILUKU, November 8.—When the well known rancher, Pia Cockett, learned on Saturday morning last, that a fire heifer was missing and that everything pointed to a case of cattle stealing, he got busy and sent his men out on the jump to see what was the matter.

The first hint as to something having happened in the line of cattle stealing, was when some dogs were seen to be dragging the hide of a cow from a hole in the ground. This was enough for the ranch manager and he at once sent for the police. The deputy sheriff took the matter in hand and, before long, there was ample evidence to show that a band of Filipinos had committed the crime.

As soon as one Filipino was arrested, he squealed on the rest and, in less than an hour or so, ten other "little brown brothers" were under arrest. The whole bunch came through with what they knew, and the consequence is that all the men are now either in jail, or at liberty, after paying a fine. Some of the Filipinos went up for six months, but some of the others were freed, as they were only accomplices, after the fact.

The story of the main informer is to the effect that a few Filipinos saw the heifer running on the town common. She was sleek and fat and the thought of the juicy steaks that could be cut from her round body soon worked the Filipinos up to a state where they thought of nothing else. One of the bunch had a gun and, after driving the cow up into a quiet spot, a shot was fired that dropped her in her tracks. Then began the skinning and distribution of the choice cuts and other beef. The hide was buried in a hole and covered with earth. All seemed to be well until the dogs came along and unearthed the skin.

At first the Filipinos tried to bluff that they thought the heifer was a big goat. That story did not carry much weight with Judge McKay, however, and the whole crowd of amateur butchers were fined guilty and sentenced as related above.

WAILUKU, November 8.—During the heavy squalls of Sunday last there were several narrow escapes from wrecks among the smaller craft that ply around the coast of Maui. Two big sampans did actually go ashore, and one of them is a total wreck. The force of the wind was so great that the sampans, which were moored some distance out in Kahului Bay, were driven ashore.

One sampan is a total loss—except for the engine, which may be recovered and set up again. When the boat struck it heeled over and, after breaking its bow, filled with sand and water. It was a hard job to get the sand out and uncover the engine, after the sea had subsided.

No damage was done to the break water at Kahului, although the waves threw spray well over it at times. The sea kept for several days and the beach road was a wet drive for part of the past week.

SECOND SERIES OF OAHU LEAGUE WON BY HAWAIIIS

FRANCIS BARNEY JOY HAS MUCH ON THE BALL AND JOHN MCGRAW NOTLEY'S CREW FIND HIS SHOTS UNHITTABLE.

All-Chinese 12, Coast Defense 2.
Kansas 5, Stars 1.

(From Monday Advertiser.)

Francis Barney Joy put the Stars into the discard heap at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 1 with the aid and assistance of his team mates and by so doing he gained the everlasting thanks of the dear baseball public for the victory of the Hawaiis in the awful tangle which has existed in the Oahu League for a month of Sundays and then some.

Previous to this battle the All-Chinese and Coast Defense team indulged in what some people called a ball game but what most of those present called a joke. Captain O'Hara was minus the service of Handsome Jack Lawson and his absence was keenly felt by the Coast Defenders for without him the team seems to be a ship without a rudder.

Up to the third inning this game had the earmarks of a struggle to it but after that it was a wild scramble to the finish. The Hawaiis won the rubber and when the final reckoning came it was found that an even dozen of the little fellow men had dented the rubber.

On the other hand but two of the O'Hara clan could get to the last stopping place.

Just what caused the downfall of the oldiers is unknown but it looks from the score card as if too many hits by the All-Chinese and too many errors on the part of the Coast Defenders brought about their overthrow.

Rounds one, two and three went by in fairly good shape and then the danger started. Markham opened the fourth inning for the A.C.'s with a drive to centerfield and when Harris took A. Akana's punt and heaved it into the bleachers Marky went to third and Albert went to second. Foster Robinson's out put Marky over the rubber and Akana at third and then he scored when Kong was tossed out at first base.

Still the Run Come.

In the fifth inning the A.C.'s gathered two more. Ayan walked and never topped running till he reached the rubber when Lai Tin hit the ball for three bases into far left field. Kan Yen's sacrifice put Lai over the rubber a moment later.

Harris became pacy in the sixth inning for here the A.C.'s gathered four runs. Robinson hit a pop up to center and should have been out but Holander missed the ball so badly that Robinson gathered a two-bagger and then reached third when Holander erred. Ping fanned but En Sue singled scoring Robinson. En Sue stole second and took third on Ayan's hit and then scored when Kick dropped Applin's throw from the outfield. Ayan scored on Lai Tin's felder a choice which was poorly handled at third and then he scored the goal of two when the other fellows have twelve? Following is the score:

How F. Barney Joy Won.

The victory of F. Barney Joy was a well-earned one in the battle for the championship of the second half of the Oahu League for the 14 southwest with the red socks and the war begrimed uniform had a brand of benders that would have made Rube Waddell turn green with envy.

Yes, since F. Barney Joy was the whole show yesterday at Athletic Park as a pitcher, and the bird men of Day, Dasha played great ball behind the handsome southpaw.

Of course, Davis had En Sue and Ayan to help him out, and they helped a whole lot, but at that F. Barney was the really kid, and to him the credit for winning is mostly due.

Pitching for the Stars was Willis of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, and Willis did his work well enough to win but for the ragged spots in his support, and then again he could not keep the hits as well scattered as did Handsome Barney.

Hawaii was first to score, En Sue completing the circuit in the first inning on his hit, a steal of second, a sacrifice by Ayan and a single by Henry Chillingworth. In the third they gathered again, when En Sue reached first on Willis' error, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and then to the rubber on Ayan's hit. In the fourth the Hawaiis gathered two more on two hits, a passed ball and a felder's choice. In the eighth they gathered again.

As for the lone tally of the Stars, Walker combed the only hit of the day off Barney in the sixth inning, went to second on Dreier's error of Cullen's hit, took third on Chillingworth's error and scored on a felder's choice of Hawk hit.
